

Burma Rivers Network Call to stop all large dams on major rivers and tributaries in Burma’s conflict zones

Burma Rivers Network (BRN), Save the Salween Network(SSN) and Karen Rivers Watch(KRW) are comprised of networks are representing coming together and form a network to protect rivers in Myanmar and create health rivers and save the ecosystem.

We, together with ethnic communities around the country, are calling for an immediate to stop by building large dams, multinational hydropower industrial complex to build large dam on main rivers and tribute, including those in conflict zones in Myanmar!!!

In Myanmar, local communities across the country have long opposed these mega-dams due to their exacerbation of conflict, displacement, and human rights abuses, as well as their destructive impacts on the local environment and livelihoods.

Implementation of mega projects that are hugely impacting on local communities will affected to the peace process and create more conflict as Myanmar Government is building mutual trust for meaningful peace and federalism. Therefore

1. Do not build any dams project on rivers where existing on all of ethnic area.
2. Rehabilitation for the local communities who suffers from implemented projects and potential projects.
3. Must respect the rights of decision by indigenous people.
4. Request to stop these dams project until the recent conflict end and power sharing according by federal democratic system.
